This course is designed for all people supervising food operations in the Community and Health Service industries (e.g. child care, aged care, hospitals, meals on wheels etc.)

Training is available by in-house for groups or Correspondence - group discounts

Course content

- Communicate food safety requirements and procedures to others in the workplace;
- Ensure food handling processes and procedures meet the requirements of the food safety program;
- Ensure personnel in the food area are supported to meet food safety requirements;
- Ensure procedures for responding to non-conformance are promptly implemented;
- Identify causes of non-conformance;
- Implement control measures to prevent recurrence;
- Develop and revise procedures to support effective control of food safety hazards;
- Identification, preventive and corrective action of processes or conditions which could result in a breach of food safety procedures are taken; and
- Ensure food safety records are complete and meet the food safety program and legal requirements.

Participants receive a Nationally Recognised Statement of Attainment upon completion of course.

This nationally recognised training meets the requirements of Standard 3.2.1 - Food Safety Programs

This standard sets out the requirements for the control of food safety hazards during the production, manufacture and handling of food. It applies only in those States and Territories that choose to introduce a food safety program for some or all classes of food business.
